As Amber and I celebrate our 20th wedding anniversary, I thought of seven ways long-term investing and long-term marriages are very similar:

- 📈 starts with faith and hope in the future
- 📈 takes a lot of patience
- 📈 many exciting ups and downs
- 📈 sometimes could be tempting to bail out
- 📈 long-term better for your health
- 📈 builds value over time, pays great dividends
- 📈 more wisdom and appreciation comes after persisting through the storms

I'm a big believer in both long-term marriage AND long-term investing and recommend them both. I can attribute my personal and business success to a combination of these two approaches!
