Is there a difference between brushing your teeth two or three times a day for two minutes each and brushing your teeth just once a week for thirty seven minutes?

Did you just taste that?

Big difference, right?

If you want to become a better runner and your goal is to run 21 miles per week, what's the difference between running 3 miles everyday and 21 miles on the last day of the week?

If you're watering your plants in the garden and need to water 7 gallons worth per week, what's the difference between watering them with 1 gallon per day and dumping all 7 gallons at once at the beginning the week?

You get the point.

To make progress and really grow, you've got to put in the consistent effort over time, day after day. I lo

I love that quote by Jim Watkins, "A river cuts through rock, not because of its power, but because of its persistence."

You can also apply that to saving and investing. You can take advantage of long-term compounding growth by investing more frequently. Invest new money weekly or monthly instead of at the end of the year or end of the quarter. Many of our most successful clients invest new money each week.

Consistency. Discipline. Habits.

Like a river, cut through the rock with your persistence.
