January 29, 2021

In This is YOUR LIFE. You only get one.

You won't feel free unless you realize you have complete responsibility for your life.

So stop playing the blame game. ●

It's easy to fall into the trap of blaming: blaming the government for the lack of money in your paycheck, blaming the wind for a poorly played round of golf, blaming red lights and traffic for your late arrival at work.

The time has come to accept responsibility for your actions and stop playing the victim.

Yes, there are thousands of things that could affect you but are outside of your control.

To paraphrase the words of Charles R. Swindol: Life is 10% what happens and 90% how you react to it.

Freedom comes when you accept that your life experience and happiness are both up to you!
