I love America.

That doesn't mean I think everything in America is perfect. But I love this country. We have so much to be grateful for, especially our freedom and opportunities.

I hope you had a great July 4th holiday. In our family discussions this weekend, we talked about what Independence Day really means, and the principles of freedom, opportunity and courage... part of the fabric of our country.

With all the negativity in the news and social media, I believe (now more than ever) our young people need to learn about the great parts of our country and why we are fortunate to be Americans.

We need to keep the optimism and hope that our future will be bigger and better than our past. The best is yet to come. As an investor, that belief is required. You only invest money with the hope and expectation of growth in the future! You cannot believe the future is doomed while investing.

There are many opportunities ahead. There will be bumps in the road (inflation, tax increases, rising interest rates, recessions), but we can help you navigate through those. Click here to schedule a time to talk!

P.S. Here are the top 100 BBQ grilling recipes for the summer! I personally think #18, #21, and #72 look delicious!!

Have a great week!
